WHEN UNDERSTANDING BEGINS

THERE COMES A MOMENT
WHEN THE SEARCH QUIETLY CHANGES.
NOT BECAUSE YOU FINALLY FOUND EVERY ANSWER...
BUT BECAUSE YOU BEGIN QUESTIONING
THE ONE WHO HAS BEEN SEARCHING ALL ALONG.

THE HUMAN MIND SERIES

BOOK V

WHEN UNDERSTANDING BEGINS

(The greatest distance between two people was never space.

It was the invisible story each believed the other could already see.)

Lalit R. Mishra

"Every person carries an invisible world.

We mistake reactions for personalities,

silence for indifference,

and distance for a lack of love—

forgetting that every human being is responding to a reality

we were never present to witness."

DISCLAIMER

This book is a work of personal reflection and observation.

It does not intend to criticize, target, or define any individual, parent, child, or relationship.

All ideas expressed are subjective and based on personal perspective and understanding.

Readers are encouraged to interpret the content through their own experiences and understanding.

DEDICATION

To every parent who stayed silent while carrying too much.

And to every child who felt unheard while feeling too deeply.

To the homes where love was always present... but understanding needed more space.

NOTE FROM THE AUTHOR

This book is not written to point out who is right or wrong.

It is simply a reflection of what I have observed, experienced, and thought about while trying to understand relationships more deeply.

I am not speaking against parents, nor against children. In my understanding,

both sides are right in their own way. Both are carrying their own emotions,

fears, responsibilities, and perspectives.

Sometimes what I have written may feel true, and sometimes it may feel

incomplete — because every reader has lived a different version of the same

reality.

This book is not a final truth. It is just one way of seeing things.

My intention is not to judge anyone, but to observe how misunderstandings are created even when love exists on both sides.

If this book helps someone pause, think, or understand a situation a little differently, then its purpose is fulfilled.

PROLOGUE

Before You Decide You Already Know Yourself

Before you read another sentence...

pause.

Not because this book demands your attention.

But because your mind has already started judging it.

Without realizing it, you have already begun asking questions.

"Will this book be worth my time?"

"Will I agree with it?"

"Can it teach me something I don't already know?"

Notice something strange.

You haven't even entered the book...

yet your mind has already created an opinion.

That is what the human mind does.

It predicts before it observes.

It concludes before it understands.

It protects before it questions.

And after enough years...

we stop calling this conditioning.

We call it our personality.

Every human being believes they are becoming someone.

A better version.

A stronger version.

A wiser version.

A happier version.

We spend our entire lives chasing a future version of ourselves...

without ever asking a terrifying question.

Who told me that the person I am today is incomplete?

Think carefully.

Not emotionally.

Logically.

Before you knew language...

you had no identity.

Before you knew your name...

you weren't trying to become anyone.

Before society described success...

you never felt behind.

Before comparison...

there was simply experience.

Then slowly...

people handed you definitions.

This is success.

This is failure.

This is beauty.

This is intelligence.

This is masculinity.

This is femininity.

This is achievement.

This is respect.

This is God.

This is purpose.

This is love.

And because you were too young to question them...

you accepted them.

Not because they were true.

Because they arrived before doubt did.

Years passed.

Those borrowed ideas became your beliefs.

Those beliefs became your decisions.

Those decisions became your habits.

Those habits became your identity.

And one day...

you looked into a mirror...

and called all of it

"Me."

The most dangerous prison has no walls.

It has certainty.

Once you become certain about who you are...

growth quietly dies.

Not because truth disappeared...

but because questions did.

Human beings rarely fear death.

We fear discovering that the person we spent our entire lives protecting...

never truly existed.

Imagine spending decades defending an identity...

only to realize it was built from fear...

comparison...

memory...

and survival.

Would you call that freedom?

Or would you call it a beautifully decorated cage?

Your memories feel real.

Your emotions feel undeniable.

Your opinions feel original.

But have you ever wondered why millions of people are equally convinced of completely opposite truths?

How can certainty exist on both sides?

Because certainty does not prove truth.

It proves attachment.

The mind does not seek reality.

It seeks stability.

If reality threatens stability...

the mind rewrites reality.

That is why two people can experience the same moment...

and remember entirely different stories.

Not because memory records life.

Because memory edits it.

Perhaps the greatest illusion is not that we lie to others.

It is that we mistake our explanations for reality.

Every time life hurts us...

the mind rushes to create a story.

"They never loved me."

"I'm not enough."

"People always leave."

"I deserve this."

"I'm different."

"I'm broken."

"They're wrong."

"I'm right."

Stories.

Nothing more.

Yet entire lives are built upon them.

Careers.

Relationships.

Wars.

Religions.

Dreams.

Regrets.

Not because the stories were true...

but because they were repeated until they became familiar.

And familiarity has always disguised itself as truth.

This book is not asking you to believe anything written inside it.

Belief is easy.

Questioning is rare.

Instead...

I invite you into something far more uncomfortable.

Observe your own mind while reading.
Notice the sentences that make you defensive.
Notice the paragraphs you immediately reject.
Notice the ideas you desperately want to argue against.
Those reactions matter more than my words.
Because books never reveal who the author is.
They reveal who the reader is.
Every page becomes a mirror.
Some people will only see ink.
Some will see themselves.
Do not read this book looking for motivation.
Motivation fades.
Do not read it looking for answers.
Answers become new beliefs.
Read it as someone willing to lose certainty.
Because sometimes...
the greatest act of intelligence...
is not learning something new.
It is realizing that what you have always called yourself... may only be a story that survived long enough to become believable.
And if that possibility frightens you...

good.

Truth has never been responsible for comfort.

Only illusion has.

So before you turn the page...

leave one thing behind.

The person you are absolutely certain you are.

Because if you cannot question your identity...

you will only use this book to strengthen it.

And that would be the greatest misunderstanding of all.

The pages ahead are not trying to change your life.

They are trying to introduce you...

to the possibility...

that your life has been narrated by a voice you never chose.

Read slowly.

Question relentlessly.

Believe nothing too quickly.

Not even this.

Especially this.

INTRODUCTION

Hum sab ek aise relation mein paida hote hain jise hum choose nahi karte, par usi ke andar hum apni poori life define karne lagte hain.

Parent aur child ka relation duniya ka sabse natural bhi hai aur sabse complex bhi — kyunki yahan sirf love nahi hota, yahan fear, responsibility, expectation, ego aur silence sab ek saath rehte hain.

Aur sabse badi problem ye nahi hoti ki hum ek dusre se pyaar nahi karte...

problem ye hoti hai ki hum ek dusre ko samajhne ki koshish hi nahi karte.

Hum roles ko dekhte hain “parent” aur “child”

Insaan ko nahi dekhte.

Aur jab insaan invisible ho jata hai, tab emotions confuse ho jaate hain.

Bachcha apne perspective se dekhta hai aur sochta hai — “mujhe samjha nahi ja raha.”

Parent apne pressure se dekhta hai aur sochta hai — “mujhe follow nahi kiya ja raha.”

Dono apni jagah sahi hote hain, par dono ek hi reality mein nahi hote.

Kyuki reality common nahi hoti... reality interpreted hoti hai.

Har parent apne past ka result hota hai, aur har child apne present ka pressure.

Aur jab past aur present ek hi ghar mein collide karte hain, tab misunderstanding normal ban jati hai.

Ghar mein aksar shanti hoti hai, par connection nahi hota. Baat hoti hai, par understanding nahi.

Presence hoti hai, par awareness nahi.

Aur hum is gap ko normal samajh lete hain — jabki yahi gap sab kuch todta hai.

Ye book kisi ko defend karne ke liye nahi hai, aur kisi ko blame karne ke liye bhi nahi.

Ye ek attempt hai us invisible truth ko observe karne ka jo hum daily ignore kar dete hain — ki shayad hum ek hi ghar mein rehkar bhi ek dusre ke emotional world tak kabhi pohanch hi nahi paate.

Aur shayad sabse bada shift tab aata hai jab hum samajhna start karte hain ki —

“samajh na aana” bhi ek human reality hai, na ki kisi ki galti.

LAYER 1:
THE HUMAN MASK
(WHAT WE SEE)

CHAPTER 1:

WHY WE ONLY SEE RULES, NOT EMOTIONS

kabhi socha hai...

jo hume rokte hai

jo hume tokte hai

jo hume “ye karo, vo mat karo” kehte hai...

shayad woh humare against nahi hote...

shayad woh bas humare future se dar rahe hote hai hum har ek student ko

lagta hai ki humare parents hume humesha rokte hai tokte hai padhai karo ye

karo vo karo aur hume lagta hai ki humesha hum hi kyu kare sab aapke man

ka kare hum bade hogaye hai ab hum samjh sakte hai

mtlb haan tum mai sab bade hogaye ho but just think once they are our parents unhe humse jyada humari parwah hai

ik kuch jagah rules regulations hote hai ye karo vo mat karo but kabhi socha

hai ki aaj jo bahar tumhara name hai market mai kyu vahi parents ke rules regulations se vo jo image hai vo kyu hai hum jo dekhte hai humesha vo yehi hai rules datna ye vo but uske piche ka reason kabhi puchle to ki papa ye esa kyu haan datenge ho sakta hai daten but tum ek baar baat to karke dekh sakte ho na

hota hai kabhi kabhi ghar ka pressure hota hai padhai ko leke life ko leke

but just think once

aur imagine karo jinke parents nahi hai unka kya atleast humare pass koi ek track to hai ki ye karna hai life mai humara mind esa hai ki lakh positive hua hoga aur 1 negative hua hoga na to

vo 1 negative ki taraf jaldi jayega aur 1 se fir purane mistakes sab kuch khich lega

aur hum fir sochte hai ki jab dekho ye vo daat padhai ye karo

but if hum dekhne ka pov change kar de na

jo maa baap aaj bojh lagte hai na vahi maa baap bhagwan lagne lagenge

ye sab gyan lag raha hoga

but actually the realisation is very simple bas humne apne aap ke andar

kachra bhar diya hai

aur kahi kahi i think parents ko bhi thoda change hona chahiye like they should be freely jisse bachcha share kar paye cheeze use dono mai bond rehta

hai misunderstanding kam rehti hai aur jaha misunderstanding kam waha relation strong kabhi kabhi dimag itna disturb hota hai ki vo imaginary world mai vo sab

easily bana leta hai hume lagta hai vo sab dekhne ke baad ki life akele best hai

peace hai healing hai

reality hit karegi hard ik

but still mera kaam hai kehna

real life mai bina parents ke hum kar to lenge

but na jaane kitne laot kha ke kitne pain face karke pressure overthinking no

track of life kya karna hai aage kuch bhi sab khokhla ho jayega

aur jab ye sab hoga na

tab samajh aayega ki jo aaj hume bojh lagta hai

vo kal absence ban jata hai aur absence sabse bada bojh hota hai atleast abhi ek path hai hum sabke samne haan hume bas khud ko aur thoda sa parents ka nature change karne ki try karni hai
aur kuch nahi
fir sabki life best hogi
har ek relation baap bete ka pyar hi kuch esa hai vo dikhate hai strictness se but andar kitna pyar hai sirf unhe pata hai hum imagine bhi nahi kar sakte
bachpan mai wahi parents jo aaj hume bojh lagte hai ghar vo unko chhod ke jane ka man karta hai wahi parents ke bina hum reh nahi paate the rote the khelte the kudte the masti karte the padhte the aur aaj jab humari baari aayi hai unhe hum ese pov se dekh rahe hai
jo hume abhi to realize nahi ho raha but after a death bahut regret hoga aur i damn sure
ye har ek teenage ko shayad kharab bhi lage
but ye reality hai

CHAPTER 2:

WHY PARENTS FEEL STRICT TO US

shuruaat yaha se hoti hai...

hum jab parents ko dekhte hai na

toh hume lagta hai ki woh humesha strict hai

har choti chiz pe rokna

har choti galti pe tokna

har decision pe question uthana

aur hum sochte hai:

“kyun hamesha mujhe hi control kiya jata hai?”

par kabhi ruk ke socha hai...

ki jo strictness hume pressure lagti hai shayad woh unka dar hota hai parents ke andar bhi ek mind hota hai

jo hum nahi dekhte

unke dimaag mein chalta hai:

agar mera bachcha galat raah pe chala gaya toh?

agar uska future kharab ho gaya toh?

agar main usko protect nahi kar paya toh?

hum sochte hai woh hume control kar rahe hai par unko lagta hai woh hume bachaa rahe hai kabhi kabhi “no” jo hota hai na woh rejection nahi hota woh protection hota hai par problem yahi hoti hai...

hum intention nahi dekhte hum reaction dekhte hai aur jab reaction pe focus hota hai toh intention blur ho jata hai hum kehte hai: “mujhe samjha nahi jata” par parents bhi sochte hai: “main sahi kar raha hu ya nahi?”
ye dono side ka confusion hai par dono ko lagta hai woh akela hai is feeling mein kabhi kabhi woh strict isliye hote hai kyunki unke paas duniya experience hota hai aur hum soft isliye hote hai kyunki hum abhi experience bana rahe hote hai difference yahi hai
aur jab ye difference samajh nahi aata toh distance ban jata hai par sach ye hai...

strictness aur care ke beech gap sirf ek cheez ka hota hai:
understanding
kyunki jab understanding hoti hai toh “no” bhi love lagta hai aur jab understanding nahi hoti toh “yes” bhi pressure lagta hai aur parents ki strictness hi unka pyaar haiii acha guys tumne kabhi na kabhi life mai abtak ek esa phase aaya hoga jaha ek koi bhi random person hai jo tumhe tumhare accordingly karne de raha hai
tumhare man ka na benefits na nuksaan kuch bhi nahi bas karne de raha hai
aur jab tumhara fayda hua if to tumhe lagta hai ki parents se acha ye hai
but jab nuksaan hua to wahi tumhe chhod ke chala jayega tab pata hai us fight mai tumhare saath kaun khada hoga parents
bhale thoda daate
aur as a parent unka farz hai vo but tumhe us situation se nikal lenge aur usi jagah agar parents se discuss karke tum karo to ye scene hi create

nahi hota shayad

they are parents they know life very well humse jyada

infact hum aaj kuch incidents dekh ke sochte hai ki humne duniya dekh li

but this is totally wrong

as a child as a writer i was too in this situation

kabhi life mai ese time bhi aate hai jaha tum galat nahi hote fir bhi sunte ho

its ok as a karma usse accept kar lena chahiye

hum unki strictness ko bojh kyu samjhate hai hum ye bhi to soch sakte hai na ki haan ye galat hai they are right ya simply

usse accept karke aage chal sakte hai

but we are teenage na

hume to uspar overthinking karke us chhoti si baat ko pahad tak banana hai

khud hi banate hai aur khud hi dusre par blame karte hai

if students career mai like usse arts lena hai usne science liya ghar ke kehne

par

vo aage nikal gaya to kya maine nikal diya

and by chance if he is getting fail to vo usi parents ko blame deta hai ki aap ke

kehne pe hi maine choose kiya tha i'm asking is it right??
khud ki karma hum dusre pr kyu blame kare??
aur kabhi kabhi jo “random freedom” lagti hai na vo hi sabse dangerous hoti hai kyunki jo bina soche support karta hai vo jab situation bigadti hai tab waha hota hi nahi aur jo strict hota hai
vo usi situation ko pehle hi rokne ki koshish kar raha hota hai
aur shayad isi liye...
parents ki strictness kabhi kabhi samajh nahi aati par waqt ke saath wohi
cheez clarity ban jati hai shayad parents strict nahi hote...
shayad hum bas unke darr ko pehle samajh nahi paate

CHAPTER 3:

HOW MISUNDERSTANDING STARTS EARLY

shuruaat yaha se hoti hai...

misunderstanding kabhi ekdum se nahi hoti ye dheere dheere build hoti hai

ek choti si baat se

jo hum ignore kar dete hai

ek “no”

ek daant

ek chhoti si baat

ek ignored feeling

aur hum sochte hai:

“chhoti baat hai”

par andar kuch aur hota rehta hai aur fir dheere dheere...

har choti baat ek thought ban jati hai har thought ek perception ban jata hai

aur har perception ek belief ban jata hai

aur woh belief hota hai:

“mujhe samjha nahi jata”

but ab ek aur important baat samajhni hai... misunderstanding se aaj har relation mai hum problem dekh rahe hai
kahi baap bete mai
kahi maa baap aur bachho mai kahi do bhai mai
kahi bhai behan mai
aur etc
par jo misunderstanding ko samajh gaya na is point ko wo har situation handle kar sakta hai mai ab bhi jo likh raha hu yaha se bhi na jaane kitne log misunderstanding
create karenge
aur kitne log isse padh ke heal hoke samjhenge feel karke aage badhenge
par actual point aur ek bada reason ye bhi hai...
hum time ke according change ho rahe hai jo ki really good hai
par saath hi...
hume humare parents ko bhi samajhna hai itna time ke saath change hona hi sab kuch nahi hota hume unko bhi treat aise karna chahiye ki unko feel ho ki koi ho na ho

unke apni aulaad hai
jo unko samajhne ki koshish kar rahi hai na ki unhe judge kar rahi hai jese hum overthink karte hai panic aata hai
flashbacks aate hai
confusion hota hai
waise hi...
parents bhi human hai
bhale parents hai to kya?
human nahi hai kya?
vo bhi in sab cheezon se guzarte hai
par society ne ek thought bana diya hai:
“parents hai na, unko sab pata hota hai” par reality ye hai...
unke paas bhi feelings hoti hai unke paas bhi fear hota hai unke paas bhi confusion hota hai aur agar hum unhe thoda samajhne lage...
toh relation sirf survive nahi karega woh grow karega

kyunki jab dono side judge kam karti hai aur samajhne zyada lagti hai toh waha bond strong ho jata hai “shayad problem generation gap nahi hai... shayad problem ek dusre ko
human na samajhna hai”

LAYER 2:
THE HUMAN HEART
(WHAT THEY FEEL)

CHAPTER 4:

WHAT THEY FEEL BUT NEVER SAY

har parent sab kuch bolta nahi hai par iska matlab ye nahi ki unke andar kuch hota nahi kabhi kabhi jo woh chup hote hai na... woh sabse zyada loud hota hai unke dimaag mein bhi ek duniya chalti hai jo hum kabhi dekh nahi paate kya mera bachcha safe hai?
kya main usko sahi direction de raha hu?
kya main zyada strict ho raha hu?
kya main usko lose kar dunga ek din parents ke upar sirf responsibility nahi hoti unke upar ek invisible fear hota hai “galat decision uski life change kar sakta hai” isliye woh kabhi kabhi soft nahi lagte par andar se woh fragile hote hai woh kabhi nahi bolte:
“mujhe dar lagta hai”
“main thak gaya hu”

“mujhe bhi samajh nahi aa raha” kyunki unko lagta hai parent ko strong rehna hi hota hai hum sochte hai parents powerful hai
par sach ye hai...
wo bhi confused hote hai bas dikhate nahi hai
hum love ko softness se measure karte hai par parents ka love kabhi kabhi:
strictness ban jata hai silence ban jata hai rules ban jata hai
par intention wahi hota hai: “bachcha safe rahe”
problem love ki nahi hoti problem expression ki hoti hai hum chahte hai words woh dete hai actions
kabhi kabhi hum unko samajhne ki jagah unko judge kar dete hai aur wohi gap ban jata hai

“jo parents humse kehte nahi... woh aksar humare liye hi feel kar rahe hote
hai
or vo jab shant hote hai naa hume lagta hai aadat hai ye hai unko chhodd dete hai jabki us time unhe hume support krna chiyee hume samjhna chiyee what is happening vo mayb us time lots of thoughts se guzar rhe hote hai responsibilities se overthink bht common hota hai usse overstrictness aa jati hai or if over care kare freely ho to bacche jyda laadd mai aake bigad jate hai
unhe humari puri life ki chinta hoti hai unhe feel hota hai ki hum samajhte bhi hai tbhi na shant hoke hume jis chiz ke liye pehle daat te hai usi chiz ko lekr haan kar dete hai so its normal
we have to understand them as a child we have to change our perspective unke andar ki duniya unse laakh sawaal puchti hai ki bachha safe hai ya nahi hum jo ese chhoti motti baat ko lekr beth te hai unhe lagta hai hum bhi pareshan hai unko bhi negative thoughts aate hai ki unke ek galti se bachche ki direction change ho sakti hai idk but i salute to all the parents vo silent pressure + ghar ki responsibilities sab kuch ek saath handle karte hai aur kabhi kabhi unka silence hi unki exhaustion hoti hai, na ki indifference

woh hume har baar explain nahi karte kyunki unhe lagta hai “samajh jayega
kabhi na kabhi”
unka love loud nahi hota, but consistent hota hai hum jo “freedom” maangte hai, woh pehle “stability” soch rahe hote hai
unki duniya mein “future” humara present se zyada important hota hai
mene jo galti ki
main nahi chahta vo ab aur koi kare hume judge nahi karna chahiye hume unhe safe feel karvana chahiye society ka pressure hota hai “log kya kahenge”
“society kya bolegi”

unke bhi sapne hote hai par woh unko side rakh dete hai kyunki pehle hum hote hai
kabhi socha hai...
wo jo thak ke bhi kaam karte rehte hai wo jo apne sapne chhod dete hai wo jo apni khushi postpone karte rehte hai sirf isliye kyunki hum safe rahe...
agar hum unko hi na samjhe toh phir samjhega kaun?

CHAPTER 5:

THE MOMENT WE REALIZE TOO LATE

jbtk realize hota hai tbtk bht der ho chuki hoti haii ye line jitni chhoti hai utni hi dangerous bhi hai tum bas ek imaginary duniya mai hi kaapte rahoge without parents
if tum reality ke saath imagine kroge to har ek chiz ka time hota hai aur hume waqt ke saath aage badh ke responsibilities uthani chahiye
hume unhe samajhna chahiye puri zindagi ek baap aur maa bas humare liye karte karte ek din duniya chhod jaate hai ye ek common line hai
par jab koi parents meri is book ko read kar raha hai yaha tak reach karke
to shayad unhe bhi feel ho raha hoga ye har koi nahi samjhega aur jo samjhega

im sure woh change karne ka try karega aur better tarike se life spend karega regret jab aata hai na...
woh us waqt nahi aata jab galti hoti hai woh us waqt aata hai jab kuch change nahi kar sakte vo daant
vo chhoti chhoti moments insaan to nahi rehta
par uski yaadein hi tumhe andar se maar deti hai regrets tumhe kha jaate hai jab tum school ya office se aaoge na thak ke aur jo pehle mummy se pani ya papa se baat hoti thi aaj waha ek khamoshi hogi ye normal lagega
par jinke paas nahi hai unhe pata hai ye kya hota hai phir tumhe lagega:
“us time dimaag khula kyun nahi” aaj hum daat pe jawab de dete hai par kabhi socha hai
unhe kaisa feel ho raha hota hai?
jab hum chhote the school se aake sab share karte the “aaj ye padha, ye hua, ye kiya” par jab real time aata hai share karne ka tab hum baat bhi nahi karna chahte haan idhar parents ko bhi thoda samajhna chahiye kyunki bachche bhi pressure mein rehte hai kabhi kabhi suicidal thoughts tak chale jate hai ye common ho gaya hai

tab parents ko bhi regret hota hai:
“mujhe strict nahi hona chahiye tha” “mujhe samajhna chahiye tha” is point pe dono side ko samajhna chahiye aur har relation ka base hona chahiye:
kyunki agar dost jaisa bond ho toh bina dar ke baat ho sakti hai no judgement
no fear
idk maybe ye over lag raha hoga par main sirf reality samne rakh raha hu mera perspective hai shayad ye book padhke
mere jaise najane kitne log change ho jaye

“kabhi kabhi hum life ko samajhne mein itna late ho jaate hai... ki samajh tab
aati hai jab kuch badalne ke liye kuch bachta hi nahi”

LAYER 3:

HEALING PHASE

CHAPTER 6:

HEALING BEGINS WHEN UNDERSTANDING STARTS

jab hum samajhne lagte hai na...

tab healing tab start hoti hai jb hum smjhne lgte hai hnn shyd mujhe ese baat nhi krna chiyee

hnn ye esa ho skta tha

esa kr skta huu

isse hum apni side se jb chnge krennee to samne vala automatic change hogaa

jisse misudnerstanding bht kam hojayegiii

or dono jb ek dusre ko smjhenge vaha build hoga ek strong relationn

jaha ab vhi parent child

vhi bhai bhn

vhi sb relation h

bs ab insaan ko smjhdaari aagyi hoti haii

jisse vo sb sort krne ka sochta haii or apne dimaag se kam leta hai

jisse dono khush rhete haii or life happy hotii haiii isme bhii ek turnt nhi hota

time lgega months years but hogaa jb tum honeslty chaahogee jb tum react krna chhodogee tbbaa vaha se parents ko bhi achha lagega unko bhi lagega baacha ab smjh rha hi ek trust build hoga
or same goes to child
jb parents bhi smjhenge to bacchaa bhi khsh feel krega bataeyegaa healness vaha se start hogii tumhe pata ahi jese humare papa hai kuch bhi ho to hum kehte h papa ye hi esa haii same jbtk unke papa yani humare baba rehte h tbtk unhe lgta haii ki hn koi hai mere sath mujhe sikhane ke liye smjhane ke
liye
si glt sb kuch
jb dada nhi rhete h
to humare papa pr or bi kai zyda laod badh jata haii unke andr ek akelapan aajata haii or hum laa to nhi skte h but hn hum heal de skt haii like unka mood change krna

bat krna

ye sb chhoti chhoti chizeion se hii mind divert hota hai

or positivity aati h

or vaha se unhe bhi accha feel hota haii

jb hum puchenge hi nhi

chhod denega

to kaha se healness aayegii

LAYER -4:

THE CLOSURE

CHAPTER 7:

WHEN YOU FINALLY UNDERSTAND EVERYTHING

jb hum jb sb smjh jaate haii
tb vaha see sbb kuch start hota haii achha hona time lgega ik but hoga just trust mee
hum jbtk sikhte h tbkt der ho jaati haiii isliye mene ye book likha haii chhoti sii jisse shyd tum sb smjh paao i'm a too teenage boy

LAYER 5:
THE REAL WORLD
SHIFT

CHAPTER 8:

WHAT DO YOU DO AFTER UNDERSTANDING EVERYTHING

depends on youu

iff tumhare andr ye question aaya ki

hnn mene glt kiya ya mai smjh ni paa rha thaa krkee toh hn tumne book padhaa haii shiddhat see or if tum padh ke chhodte ho to tumhari mistake h

aur agr change krna hai

to turant nhi hogaa

starting kro chhoti chizeon se

jese baat krna start kro

unko smjho

pucho

unko ek challenege banao

samajh lena easy hai

par change karna mushkil hota hai

aur yahi gap decide karta hai ki insaan grow karega ya sirf sochta rahega jab tum ye sab padh lo...

toh ek question bachta hai:

“ab main karunga kya?”

sirf realize kar lena life change nahi karta

samajhna easy hai

react na karna hard hai

forgive karna harder hai

aur change rehna sabse hard hai agar tum chahte ho relation better ho:

reply dene se pehle 3 sec rukna

gusse mein answer na dena

“kyun” puchhne se pehle “kaise feel ho raha hoga” sochna kabhi kabhi bas itna karna hota hai:

ek din bina argument ke sun lena ek baar khud se baat start karna

ek chhoti si appreciation bol dena change loud nahi hota

woh chhoti chhoti cheezon mein hota hai:

tone soft hona

ego kam hona

samajhne ka effort badhna

jab tum react kam karte ho

toh samne wala automatically soften hone lagta hai kyunki relation war nahi hota relation response hota hai har din ek chhota question pucho:

“aaj maine samajhne ki koshish ki ya judge karne ki?”
agar tum galti karte ho...
it's okay
kyunki healing perfect nahi hoti healing consistent hoti hai tumhara past tum define nahi karta tumhara next response karta hai
jb hum jb sb smjh jaate haii
tb vaha see sb kuch start hota haii achha hona time lgega
but hoga trust mee
hum jbtk sikhte h tbkt der ho jaati haiii isliyye mene ye book likha haii main bhi ek teenage boy hu par socha kuch to reason hoga jo ye likh raha hu log kehte hai pressure hai suicide karna hai
par problem zyada complex nahi hoti problem sirf misunderstanding hoti hai agar hum samajh le

to sab change ho sakta hai change instant nahi hota start chhoti cheezon se hota hai baat karna
sunna
samajhna
react kam karna
aur agar tum ye sab ignore kar dete ho to change kabhi nahi aata par agar tum try karte ho to ya toh improve hoga ya seekh milegi par regret nahi rahega “kabhi kabhi life hume todne nahi aati... hume samajhne aati hai”

FINAL REFLECTION

At some point in life, every child will feel misunderstood.

And every parent will feel unappreciated.

But most people never realize — both are happening at the same time, inside the same home.

We keep waiting for the other side to understand first...

and in that waiting, years quietly pass.

Maybe understanding was never about agreeing.

Maybe it was always about seeing the other person without reducing them to their reaction.

And if you ever look back and feel “they never understood me” or “I was never understood” —

pause and ask one thing:

Did I ever try to understand before expecting to be understood?

EPILOGUE

After the Last Illusion

If you reached this page expecting closure... you have misunderstood the nature of reality.

Reality does not conclude.

Only stories do.

And perhaps that is the first uncomfortable truth waiting here.

Most people don't want truth.

They want an ending that allows them to stop questioning.

A sentence that says,

"Now you understand."

"Now you are healed."

"Now you know who you are."

But if this book has done its job...

those sentences should feel impossible.

Because understanding is not a destination.

It is the permanent destruction of certainty.

Perhaps nothing inside these pages was new.

Perhaps you had heard fragments of these ideas before.

The tragedy of humanity has never been a lack of information.

It has always been the illusion that information transforms people.

It doesn't.

People read thousands of books.

Attend countless seminars.

Watch endless videos.

Collect philosophies like souvenirs.

Yet remain imprisoned by the same mind that collected them.

Knowledge decorates the prison.

Awareness questions why the prison exists.

They are not the same thing.

Maybe you believed this book was about human behavior.

It wasn't.

Maybe you believed it was about psychology.

It wasn't.

Maybe you believed it was about identity.

Closer...

but still incomplete.

This book was never trying to explain the human mind.

It was quietly asking a far more dangerous question.

Who is the one trying to understand the mind?

The observer.

The voice reading these words.

The one you casually call...

"Me."

Have you ever actually found that "me"?

Or have you only found memories...

beliefs...

dreams...

and given the collection a single name?

The strangest thing about identity...

is that it survives without ever proving its existence.

Remove your name.

Are you still you?

Remove your memories.

Who remains?

Remove your achievements.

Your failures.

Your beliefs.

Your opinions.

Your political views.

Your religion.

Your ambitions.

Your fears.

What is left?

Most people never ask these questions.

Not because they are difficult.

Because the answers threaten everything they have spent a lifetime protecting.

The mind is brilliant.

It can transform fear into ambition.

Loneliness into superiority.

Insecurity into perfectionism.

Control into responsibility.

Attachment into love.

Escape into spirituality.

It does not merely create stories.

It convinces the storyteller.

And the greatest storyteller you will ever meet...

will always speak in your own voice.

Perhaps the most dangerous sentence ever spoken is...

"This is just who I am."

It sounds honest.

It sounds mature.

It sounds authentic.

Yet hidden beneath those words...

is often a lifetime of unquestioned conditioning pretending to be identity.

The prison rarely locks its doors.

It simply convinces the prisoner...

that leaving would mean losing themselves.

If this book has made you uncomfortable...

do not rush to resolve that discomfort.

Stay with it.

The human mind is addicted to conclusions.

It wants certainty because certainty feels safe.

But growth has never happened inside certainty.

Growth begins the moment certainty becomes unbearable.

The moment you stop defending yourself...

and start observing yourself.

Without excuses.

Without blame.

Without performance.

Without the desperate need to remain the same person you were yesterday.

One day...

perhaps years from now...

you may forget every sentence written in this book.

That is perfectly fine.

Words were never the point.

If one question survives...

that is enough.

Not...

"Who am I?"

That question still assumes someone permanent exists to be found.

Instead...

ask something quieter.

What inside me is afraid of disappearing?

Sit with that question long enough...

and you may discover that most suffering does not come from life itself.

It comes from the endless effort required to protect an image that was never stable to begin with.

So close this book.

Not because it has ended.

But because now the real reading begins.

Not of these pages.

Of yourself.

Of every reaction.

Every fear.

Every attachment.

Every certainty you once considered unquestionable.

Do not believe this book.

Do not reject it either.

Observe.

Silently.

Honestly.

Relentlessly.

Because the greatest fiction was never written inside these pages.

It was written every time you said,

"This is who I am."

And perhaps...

for the first time...

you are beginning to wonder whether that sentence was ever true at all.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Lalit R Mishra is an 18-year-old student who observes life more than he speaks about it.

He is someone who tries to understand human behavior, emotions, and the silent problems that people often ignore or fail to express clearly.

Through writing, he attempts to reflect the thoughts and struggles that exist within relationships, especially those that are misunderstood or left unspoken.

He does not write as an expert or as someone who has all the answers. Instead, he writes as someone who is still learning — from life, from people, and from his own experiences.

His intention is simple: to create awareness, encourage understanding, and help people see emotional situations from a more human perspective.

He believes that most problems in life are not created by lack of love, but by lack of understanding — and that healing begins when people start seeing each other clearly.
